Operation

An operation carried out with MINFOF this month arresting 3 traffickers.

30/01/2018 - Three traffickers were arrested with a live baby chimp and 80kg of pangolin scales in Ambam, South Region. The three operated a wildlife crime ring that ran pangolin scales and primate trafficking from the area. The operation involved a house search and the live chimp was found hidden inside a toilet. Administrative officials of the region followed with keen interest as the operation occurred. In an unprecedented and surprise move, the baby chimp was taken to the Mvogbetsi zoo despite informed advice and explanations from professionals against this destination and preferred the animal taken to the Mefou sanctuary where appropriate care and facility were available. Despite repeated efforts to get the chimp to Mefou, the decision which was primarily not for the interest of the animal but for people who want to put the animal on display, was maintained.

Activism Front: Movie – The Ghost of King Leopold

The colonial past in Africa keeps revealing its nastiness every day, indicating the enormity of the cruelty and evil inflicted on the African people and there is no other movie that captures this bitter reality better than The Ghost of King Leopold. Cutting someone’s arm to justify you actually did not waste bullet may look bizarre but understanding that the bullet was supposed to shot and kill the person and the hand brought back to the colonial master to indicate that the person had been killed, is mindboggling and that is what happened when Congo was the property of King Leopold of Belgium who unleashed untold cruelty and harshness on a people in their own land. The movie depicts the essential cruelty of the king, his spin to deflect public attention, his illicit and grotesque enrichment, the mechanisms of power domination in the areas and the braveness of some to report on the activities. The debate focused on the colonial past, Africa’s inability to emancipate, neo-colonialism, geopolitics and international and bilateral relations.
